

MONDAY - FRIDAY

April 8-12, 2024

THE ALILA NAPA VALLEY HOTEL AND RESORT

a World of Hyatt Property • Adult Only Hotel (18+) St. Helena, California

2024

COURSE OUTLINE

This five-day course is designed for practicing radiologists and covers fundamentals and pitfalls of state-of-the-art imaging, as well as hot-topics, in short, focused sessions. A selection of course faculty will lecture each day bringing a diverse cross-section of experience and knowledge from various UCSF-affiliated sites and sections. Lecture topics will focus on a practical review of routine presentations of the abdomen and pelvis in the areas of GI, GU, and ObGyn imaging and the diagnosis of routine and incidental findings in the lungs and chest cavity. This will be supplemented by diagnosis in imaging of the brain and spine and the major joints in the musculoskeletal system.

Course content will cover appropriate imaging technique and utilization of CT, MR, and US, as well as standard protocols for each organ system.

DAILY TOPICS

Monday, April 8 • ObGyn, Neuro, MSK Tuesday, April 9 • Abdomen, Neuro Wednesday, April 10 • Abdomen, Chest Thursday, April 11 • Abdomen, Chest Friday, April 12 • Abdomen, Chest, MSK

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the completion of this course, the attendee should be able to:

- 1. Implement updated guidelines for imaging of abdominal trauma, infections, and inflammatory bowel disease.
- 2. Utilize fundamentals and criteria for imaging of pregnant women at various points of gestation.
- 3. Note the classification and staging of lung cancer, as well identify common pulmonary presentations.
- 4. Recommend MR protocols for the knee, shoulder, hip and ankle, as well as applications of US in MSK imaging.
- 5. Identify brain and spinal disease in both the adult and pediatric patient.
- 6. Select guidelines and protocols for cancer screening of the aforementioned organ systems.
